The topic

We live at a time that confirms the need to promote an active citizenship as a way to bring about more Democracy in our societies.

We can consider our organisations as centres of non formal education that provide an alternative leisure time to children and young people but also as real schools of friendship and citizenship.

With this training course we want to reflect and debate on how we contribute in our society to promote a more participatory Democracy and to learn new tools to get started with a new strategy involving children in the decision making of our organisation.

Among other things, we will deal with:

- Children participation as a children's right.
- Children participation: from theory to practice.
- Challenges and best practices of children participation.
- Intercultural and cooperative learning.

The training course will take place in the facilities of a big house located near the sea, in the Maresme coast and within easy reach of Barcelona.

Accommodation and meals will be provided at the house too.
